Veterans look on as President Donald Trump and first lady Melania Trump participate in a wreath laying ceremony at the World War II Memorial to commemorate the 75th anniversary of Victory in Europe Day, Friday, May 8, 2020, in Washington.
WASHINGTON — They stormed French beaches on D-Day, helped liberate a concentration camp and fought in the Battle of the Bulge. And seven elderly World War II veterans weren’t about to let the coronavirus pandemic keep them from marking the 75th anniversary of the end of the war in Europe.

Ranging in age from 96 to 100, the veterans held their salute as President Donald Trump joined them in a commemoration at the World War II Memorial on a blustery Friday morning.

Steven Melnikoff, now 100, was an infantryman whose Army unit was responsible for capturing more than 10,000 German soldiers.

“It was a tough battle,” Melnikoff, who lives near Baltimore, said by telephone after Friday’s ceremony. Speaking of his unit, he said: “I was with them constantly for 11 months, except the weeks and months that I spent in the hospital.” He had been shot in the neck.

Melnikoff said he wasn’t worried about traveling from Maryland during the pandemic to pay his respects to all who were lost in the war, “that greatest generation.”

“We used proper protection,” he said.

Trump kept his distance as he walked by the veterans, including one in a wheelchair, who had lined up to greet him. Melnikoff said he previously had met Trump at the White House.

“I just said, ’Nice to see you again, Mr. President,’ and he acknowledged that,” Melnikoff said.

The president and first lady Melania Trump participated in a wreath-laying ceremony and toured the memorial. They paused in front of a wall of stars with the phrase “Here we mark the price of freedom,” before they returned to the White House.

Trump said the commemoration was “windy and beautiful.”

White House officials had described the veterans as “choosing nation over self” by deciding to join Trump at the ceremony.

“These heroes are living testaments to the American spirit of perseverance and victory, especially in the midst of dark days,” said White House spokesman Judd Deere.

Timothy Davis, director of the Greatest Generations Foundation, which helps veterans return to the countries where they fought, said the U.S. soldiers were originally scheduled to travel to Moscow for a commemoration event. But with international travel out of the question during the pandemic, Davis said they talked to him about trying to commemorate the day in Washington.

“Of course, we presented to them the risk we are facing,” Davis said. “They said, ’It doesn’t matter, Tim,’” and asked him to press ahead, saying they viewed the commemoration as “a blessing to all who fought, died and served in World War II.”

Other veterans joining Trump were Gregory Melikian, 97, of Phoenix, who sent the coded message to the world that the Germans had unconditionally surrendered.

Donald Halverson, 97, of Minnesota, saw some of the war’s fiercest fighting in Italy. John Coates, 96, of Maryland, fought in the Battle of the Bulge. Jack Myers, 97, of Hagerstown, Maryland, was part of a unit that liberated the Dachau concentration camp.

Melnikoff; Guy Whidden, 97, of Braddock Heights, Maryland; and Harold Angle, 97, of Chambersburg, Pennsylvania, participated in the D-Day invasion that turned the tide in the war.

Melnikoff described himself as striving toward new goals, including golf.

“My mission now that I’m 100 years old is to make sure many young people know the story of what happened 75 years ago,” he said. “I want the people to remember so this would never happen again.”

He was also looking ahead to a golf game on Saturday. Melnikoff plays three times a week and, according to background provided by the White House, is scheduled to set a world record in the summer as the oldest golfer to play on a course in Scotland.

“Golf is the greatest game, and you can play it till you’re 100 years old,” Melnikoff said.
Col. Gen. Paul Stumpf signs the surrender terms for the Luftwaffe, Germany's air force, early May 9, 1945, in Berlin. The combined chiefs of the German army, navy and air force signed the formal ratification of the Third Reich's unconditional surrender in Berlin before Air Chief Marshal Sir Arthur Tedder, representing Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower, commander of all Allied forces, and Marshal Georgi Konstantinovich Zhukov, deputy Commander-in-Chief of the Soviet Forces. The event took place two days after a document was signed by German officials in Reims, France, and announced the following day, May 8. U.S. SIGNAL CORPS

Karl Doenitz, reads the document of unconditional surrender of Germany to the Allies, which he is about to sign at 2:42 a.m. May 7, 1945, in the war room at Forward Headquarters of Supreme Headquarters Allied Expeditionary Forces at Reims, France. Under the instrument of surrender all German armed forces were bound to lay down their arms on all fronts. On Jodl's left is Adm. Good day fellow legionnaires, I hope your confinement is going well. Please consider the following events from our June 2020 calendar. D’Day comes on Saturday, June 6, Flag day, and the Army’s birthday on June 24. Father’s Day on June 21, and the beginning of the Korean war on June 25, emphasizing the importance of buddy checks again, especially knowing a majority of our members fit into the senior citizen category. They may need your help; please be there for them.

By now, all post commanders and adjutants have received the letter from Department Commander Steve Adams with its attachments. Long-awaited guidance on how the posts might conduct regular operation and business during the pandemic. Please read it. We should know the outcome of the decision on 5/30 concerning the state convention. I hope all have searched their conscience and helped make the decision that best suits our 14,470 members. Speaking of the number of members, we have only 2004 to reach our 100% goal by June 17. Let us get our heads up and look at the pot of gold at the end of the rainbow. Nibbling away at this bit by bit will get us there. We are present #35 in the nation and are at 88.27% of the goal. On the bright side of this, see the following:

District Commanders, please have your posts review the zip code list and send me corrections if some zips are included in error or excluded. Please keep up the hard work; we will get there.

Our Proposed Budget for our Department Budget for 2020-2021 and our Proposed two-month Budget to cover the period August and September 2020 to support our new Tax Reporting Year change are published in this Legionnaire and will be presented to the Delegates at the Department Convention for discussion and acceptance.
In these difficult times we are being creative in the way we are holding Post and District elections and communicating with our members. Our Posts will either stay in place or have elections. As you hold your Post Elections, remember to vote for your Post Delegates. Post Delegates Forms must be completed and sent to Department with $15. For each Post Delegate authorized. Even if you do not have enough Post Delegates you are required to send in the $15. For each Delegate authorized for your Post. Posts that do not pay their delegate fees are “not in good standing”; there members cannot enter the Convention Floor without a Delegate badge and have no vote. The Department Adjutant has sent out the required Post Delegates for each Post by Post population. All Delegates attending the Department Convention must have their Post Delegate Forms with their Adjutant certification sent to Department 45 days before the Department Convention.

I offer this is the first time in recorded history that humanity has attempted to quarantine whole societies. Like, nearly all of them. At the same time. We have always quarantined the sick. And, we have protected the most vulnerable, but never this.

Dealing with financial, emotional, and even physical challenges have become a common occurrence for many more people. As a community of veterans, we will continue to work and get through this together.

There may always be a debate about whether quarantine was necessary and accomplished what it intended, or that it was unnecessary, and the threat was not what we thought it was. Like many of you, I don’t particularly like gray areas. I like facts. And I am reasonably certain the only facts that will come out of this pandemic is what happened – as in after the fact – and not what might have happened.

Despite the upheaval to our routines and change around us, we are persevering. Veterans are resilient. And I thank you for your patience and leadership, and for the continued caring, you undertake for others. Working together, we are getting through this together.

District 1 Annual Meeting – There was an excellent turnout for the annual meeting, which was conducted by video-teleconferencing on Saturday, 2-May as social distancing directives remained in place. It was an outstanding opportunity to be adaptive and flexible in using technology to run our meeting, and it went well.

District 1 has work to do on both items, as I pen this article, achieving 100% on both is quite attainable, and I expect us to be at 100% on consolidated post reports (CPR) by early June.

Elections were completed for district officer positions, and we congratulate Commander-elect Lou Neubecker, Seaside #99, and Vice Commander-elect John Staub, Aloha #104, and extend to each of them our congratulations and warm wishes for success in the coming year. Please continue the same outstanding support to them as you provided our 2019-2020 district officers.

COVID-19 BIRTHDAY

Past Department, Auxiliary President Linda Liebenow, celebrates her 1st birthday amid this Covid-19 shutdown.

It was difficult and next to impossible to blow the candle out with a face-mask on. Whether you’re reaching for the hand sanitizer, a mask, or the fire extinguisher, Linda always gets the job done.

She had been checked out by the Gate staff yesterday at the Roseburg VA and found to be acceptable to pass through the gate, and we always find Linda exceptionally acceptable to pass through our Volunteers doors.

It’s our Volunteers that make the Legion Go-round.

She is always there, ready to lend a hand to the department, and she is very much appreciated.

So wish her a Happy Birthday. Send her a card too.

Good day to all Oregon legion members, Especially those involved and supporting Scouting. This department strives to increase our post participation in scouting units. If your post is interested in Scouting, please call Larry Wittmayer 503-970-4944.

Since the first of the year, Scouting as most know it is morphing. Because of the pandemic Scouting is moving into the digital world. On May 2nd national hosted a virtual campout nationwide calling it the “national camp in.” Most councils and especially our Cascade Pacific Council, attended this event. Most council offices have been closed, and operations have moved off-site. Scouting continues via go to meetings and other digital venues. Den, troop, and other youth meetings are going digital as well as adult and youth training. This year brought the consolidation of three councils affecting our state. Ore-Ida council and snake river council are now called Mountain West Council.

As most are aware of the curtailment of physical meetings, it has been difficult to kickoff and conduct the annual financial campaigns. These campaigns are essential for the operation of our councils in support of the youth. Please go to your local council website and donate to keep scouting alive in your local area.
The Jackson County Veterans’ Advisory Committee, was the guest speaker.

“Memorial Day isn’t just about sales and the start of summer,” he said. “It’s a time to pay tribute to those who paid the ultimate sacrifice to protect their country.”

He shared stories about heroes in action, urging listeners to honor them and to reflect on their service. Following Huff’s remarks, a wreath was placed near a group of flags representing the branches of military service by cemetery foreman David Barnes and John Martin.

Veterans were honored Memorial Day at Eagle Point National Cemetery in ceremonies that were strikingly reflective of COVID-19 times as speakers spoke of loss and isolation. It was a picture-perfect sunny day at the stunningly beautiful hilltop cemetery, administered by the National Park Service.

Because of pandemic physical distancing guidelines, there was no audience. However, Rhonda Haney, public affairs officer for the Veterans Affairs Southern Oregon Rehabilitation Center & Clinics, streamed the ceremonies via Facebook. The program is now posted and can be viewed on the VA SORCC Facebook page.

Wayne Goddard, acting director of the Eagle Point Cemetery, served as emcee. He said this year’s ceremony was a little different, noting that COVID-19 had taken many older veterans in the past several months.

“And because of that, we also want to honor Veterans Affairs health workers for their service on the front line,” he said.

Today, OHA released its COVID-19 Weekly Report, showing the data trends for the pandemic in our state. New this week is a table (figure 3) that shows the distribution of the number of days it takes a person with COVID-19 to report recovery from their illness. Also, OHA is adding the cumulative presumptive cases to the weekly report and will stop reporting out the new presumptive cases daily.

Next week, we will distribute the Weekly Report on Wednesday because of the Memorial Day holiday on Monday.

Dear Commander,

Re: A Quiet Cadence

I am a Legionnaire, Annapolis grad, and Marine Corps Vietnam veteran. On June 15, the Naval Institute Press will publish my novel, A Quiet Cadence, about a veteran who served as a young Marine in Vietnam and then struggled to make sense of his war and the sacrifices of his friends in the following years. Though about Vietnam and its aftermath, the story’s themes of courage, honor, resilience and love apply to all our veterans and their families as well.

General Jim Mattis says the novel “sets the standard for an authentic description of combat and what our infantry veterans carry with them when they return home. Savage yet compassionate.” General David Petraeus describes A Quiet Cadence as “vivid, haunting, and moving...eloquent, captivating...searing...a masterful, evocative book.” Admiral Mike Mullen calls the novel “extraordinary...compelling...unique.” Admiral James Stavridis praised the story as “extraordinary, honest, and powerful.” Lt. General Frances Wilson says the novel “is as relevant to veterans today as it was in the 60’s.”

I believe the book would be of significant interest to many of your Legionnaires and those who care about them. As you can see from the enclosed press release, I have been humbled to have received enthusiastic reviews from some remarkable leaders and writers. If you would like to have a copy of the press release in an easily emailed format to send to anyone you think might be interested, I would be very happy to send you one.

A Quiet Cadence is available for ordering now from the Naval Institute Press, Barnes & Noble and Amazon for delivery around June 15. I think you’d agree that date is fitting, falling about half way between Memorial Day and the 4th of July.

Thanks for all you do for our fellow veterans.

A Quiet Cadence
A Novel
By Mark Treanor

"A must-read book for any American who wants to understand war and its impact on those we send into close combat. Mark Treanor sets the standard for an authentic description of combat and what our infantry veterans carry with them when they return home. Savage yet compassionate, A Quiet Cadence will take its place as one of our most telling narratives of war and its aftermath.” —Gen Mattis, General, U.S. Marines (Ret.)

"Mark Treanor has written an extraordinary story about the Vietnamese War in 1969 on a par with Materhorn and Fields of Fire. The narrative follows PFC Marty McClure, USMC, during the war in fierce and brutal ground combat, which is compelling. What is unique is Mark’s telling of life after combat and the Post Traumatic Stress (PTS) that accrues to every single individual who has ever been in a firefight. We are far behind in addressing PTS issues for our combat veterans. Mark’s incisive writing does a great deal to illuminate its reality and the urgent need to address it. Please read this book. You won’t be able to put it down.” —Adm. Mike Mullen, USN (Ret.), 17th Chairman Joint Chiefs of Staff

"Stark and honest, A Quiet Cadence masterfully captures all ... from the individual courage, sacrifice and dedication, through the black humor, dread of combat, and fear of failure, to that special unbreakable human bond that stands the test of time. Powerful, it brought back many names and memories for me.” —Gen Mike Hagee, USMC, 33rd Commandant of the Marine Corps, A 1/1 Vietnam

"Vivid, haunting, and moving, Mark Treanor’s eloquent, captivating novel provides a searing account of the experiences of and relationships between those who serve together in intense ground combat – and it conveys powerfully the difficult, wrenching adjustment to life back in ‘the world’ after being part of the ‘sanctuary of the close fight’ and surviving to make it home. A Quiet Cadence is a masterful, evocative book.” —Gen. David Petraeus, USA (Ret.), former Commander, CENTCOM

"This is an extraordinary, honest, and powerful novel. I was immediately captivated by it’s tone and pace, which carries the reader from the dark heart of the Vietnam combat experience to the harrowing challenges of returning home. On par with classic Vietnam era novels by James Webb and Karl Marlantes in its grit and truthfulness. Highly recommend!” —Adm. James Stavridis, USN (Ret.), Dean, The Fletcher School, Tufts University and Former NATO Supreme Allied Commander

"A quiet Cadence is a riveting account of a young Marine’s combat experiences in Vietnam and the audible effects in its aftermath. Mark Treanor brilliantly captures the physical and emotional trauma of close combat while masterfully weaving in timeless lessons about leadership, courage, camaraderie. Simply put, this is an relevant to veterans today as it was in the 60’s.” —F. C. Wilson, Lt. Gen, USMC (Ret.) 12th President, National Defense University

"A riveting look at what soldiers have experienced from Vietnam to Afghanistan. In A Quiet Cadence, they live through intense combat then return to civilians life to struggle with memories of dead or horribly wounded friends while successfully pursuing career ranging from shopkeeper to surgeon. A story of resilience and recovery, this book brilliantly describes characters who struggle but nonetheless get on with their lives – like most veterans do.” —Jon C. Sprengel, Esq, Founder of Vietnam Veterans Memorial, Chairman National Selective Service Review Board, Army Emissary in Vietnam

"A compelling story, told with brutal realism but also deep compassion, of a young man’s war in Vietnam and his years-long struggle after coming home to make peace with troubled memories and his grief for lost friends.” —Arnold R. Isaacs, journalist and author of Without Honor: Defeat in Vietnam and Cambodia

"A great read. Few books move me to tears. This one did. For every combat veteran who has dealt with coming home, A Quiet Cadence makes it clear that you are not alone.” —Karl Marlantes, author of Matterhorn; What It Is Like To Go To War; and Deep River

Coronavirus prompts urgent call for blood donors

The American Legion
MAR 31, 2020

The American Legion has supported The American Red Cross throughout the history of our organizations. In fact, the American Legion Blood Donor Program has existed officially since 1942 to encourage donations.

Once again there is a critical need for healthy blood donors to step forward.

“As our nation faces the coronavirus emergency, the Red Cross is experiencing a severe blood shortage,” said American Legion National Commander Bill Oxford, who to date has donated more than 8 gallons. “The coronavirus pandemic could affect millions of Americans, meaning fewer people are eligible to donate. At the same time, the Red Cross is noticing an uptick in the number of cancellations of blood drives. There is an urgent need for blood now.”

As the coronavirus pandemic has grown here in the United States, the number of blood drive cancellations has escalated. As of March 18, more than 4,500 Red Cross blood drives have been cancelled across the country due to coronavirus concerns, resulting in about 150,000 fewer blood donations.

The Red Cross is looking for other organizations to host community blood drives throughout this crisis so they can continue with this essential and vital community service. The Red Cross advises American Legion members that donating blood remains a safe process and donations will help keep the blood supply stable.

“You served your country admirably,” said American Red Cross National Partnerships Director Donna M. Morrissey. “We need your help again during this crisis.”

Right now many states are issuing travel bans to all but essential travel. Like grocery shopping, medical appointments and pharmacy pickups, blood drives are essential to ensure the health of the community. The Red Cross will continue to hold blood drives.

The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services, the Centers for Disease Control and Prevention, and the Food and Drug Administration have issued statements encouraging blood donation for those who are well. Recently, U.S. Surgeon General Jerome Adams said, “You can still go out and give blood. We’re worried about potential blood shortages in the future. Social distancing does not have to mean social disengagement.”

Remember that only healthy people can donate blood. Many donors complete the questionnaire portion of their donation at home and would be deferred before arrival if they were sick. At each blood drive, the Red Cross has implemented pre-screening protocols to check the temperature of donors before they enter the blood drive. Social distancing is used to space donors and meet local regulations. Red Cross employees also follow thorough safety protocols including wearing gloves, wiping down donor-touched areas after every collection, using sterile collection sets for every donation, and arm scrubbing. These mitigation measures help ensure the safety of all.

In addition, please note that there are no data or evidence to show that this coronavirus can be transmissible by blood transfusion, and there have been no reported cases of transmissions for any respiratory virus including this coronavirus. Nonetheless, the Red Cross has implemented new blood donation deferrals out of an abundance of caution, asking individuals to postpone their donation for 28 days if they meet certain risk criteria like travel to highly effected areas.

If you are able to host a blood drive, please reply online at https://rcblood.org/americanlegion. A representative from the local office will then get back to you shortly.

To schedule an appointment to donate, please visit https://sleevesup.redcrossblood.org/campaign/sleevesup-with-the-american...

5 things to know about hosting a Red Cross blood drive

The American Legion
MAR 23, 2020

American Legion Family members have completed at least 26 blood donation drives with the Red Cross since the COVID-19 pandemic disrupted lives in the United States. At those drives, at least 881 units of blood have been collected, as of April 24, according to the American Red Cross.

Right now, there are 27 American Legion-American Red Cross drives scheduled. The Red Cross is encouraging American Legion posts to work with local Red Cross volunteers to schedule one in their area.

Here are five things American Legion posts should know about working with a local Red Cross chapter on coordinating a blood drive.

1. The American Legion has a long history of supporting the Red Cross. In 1942, The American Legion launched its Blood Donor program that encourages individual blood donations and post blood drives.

2. During the current coronavirus pandemic, there is an urgent need for blood donations.

3. The Red Cross has enhanced safety precautions to keep donors, volunteers and others safe in this era of social distancing. For example, donors are kept at a distance in waiting areas. Additionally, Red Cross volunteers sanitize chairs, tables, equipment and other items between donors.

4. Safety measures also include blood drives being appointment-only now. Donors are greeted at the door and tested for a fever.

5. Interested in convening a blood drive in your community? The Red Cross recommends visiting this link to learn more and start the process.

American Legion National Commander Bill Oxford is a strong proponent of blood donations. In fact, Oxford has donated eight gallons of blood in his lifetime.

“Please consider a blood donation to support these efforts,” Oxford said in a recent video message from his home in North Carolina. “Additionally, I would encourage American Legion posts to consider working with your local Red Cross to promote — or even host — a blood drive.”

Post 180 Commander “Mick” Wilson answers our National Commander Bill Oxford’s Call for Blood drives during this Pandemic. Legion.org. “As our nation faces the coronavirus emergency, the Red Cross is experiencing a severe blood shortage,” said American Legion National Commander Bill Oxford, who to date has donated more than 8 gallons. “The coronavirus pandemic could affect millions of Americans, meaning fewer people are eligible to donate. At the same time, the Red Cross is noticing an uptick in the number of cancellations of blood drives.

There is an urgent need for blood now.” American Legion National Commander Bill Oxford is a strong proponent of blood donations. Milwaukie Post 180 usually holds a couple of American Red Cross Blood drives each year, but this time he thought outside the box. In addition to who he usually notifies, he notified all the churches in the area, and the Red Cross received 50 scheduled appointments for the day at the Post. By the end of the day, the Red Cross had collected 45 units of blood. A great accomplishment considering the COVID-19 Pandemic. Also, KATU Channel 2 news came out and interviewed Mick and ask about his preparation for the event and the importance of the Blood Drive.

Rent relief available

If you are lacking resources due to loss of income and are at risk of homelessness, Oregon Housing and Community Services’ COVID-19 Rent Relief Program may be able to help.

OHCS has allocated $8.5 million through a needs-based formula to regional Community Action Agencies (CAAs). The formula weighed severe rent burden data, poverty data, homelessness data and unemployment claims.

CAAs will begin taking applications in the coming days. Oregonians in need should contact their local CAA directly. Tenant income loss documentation and other materials are required to access this program. Rent payments will be made directly to the landlord on behalf of the tenant.

The $8.5 million was allocated by the Oregon Legislature through the Joint Emergency Board. OHCS anticipates additional resources from the Coronavirus Aid, Relief, and Economic Security (CARES) Act will be made available in the weeks ahead.

The funds were allocated statewide to local communities. See the Governor’s blog for the full list and contact information.

Legion Research Guides
Past Members or Relatives

I am with the Library Division at The American Legion National Headquarters. Prior to 1968, all member records were managed at the post level, so National Headquarters does not have any information related to individual membership prior to that year. You might try searching our Digital Archive (https://archive.legion.org/) for his name or post to see if there is any information in our national publications about him or his post’s activities.

The following are useful online tools for researching a WWII veteran's military service:

1. Request his military discharge record (DD-214) from the National Archives: https://www.archives.gov/veterans/military-service-records
4. National WWII Museum’s guide to researching veterans: https://www.nationalww2museum.org/war/research-veteran
5. WWII Draft Registration Cards (a free resource, but I believe you are asked to create an account): https://www.familysearch.org/search/collection/1861144

Two things of note regarding the National Archives: 1) there was a fire in 1973 that unfortunately destroyed 80% of the military service records, and 2) they receive thousands of requests daily, so it will take some time to hear back. If you do not have enough information about your relative to fill out the request for his military records (1) from the National Archives, I recommend searching for

Post 70 Memorial Day

American Legion Post 70 Cave Junction: Memorial Day is that special day that we remember all those Americans who give up their lives in defense of our nation. Nothing or no one will infringe on our right to honor them for their sacrifice.

PNC Charlie Schmidt snatched a 1963 Memorial Day press release from the Archives above and was shared to all.

As we approach Memorial Day to honor and remember those who gave their all for our nation, the attached April 5, 1963 American Legion news release (suggested editorial) reminds us of the cost of freedom and our responsibility as citizens to preserve freedom. Excellent message whether we are confronting communism, the global war on terrorism, or a world-wide pandemic.

How many Legionnaires besides me, are suffering QTSD (QUARANTINE TRAUMATIC SYNDROME)?

Several Legionnaires, including Dept. Commander Steve Adams, 2nd. Vice Commander Larry Wittmyer, Jim Willis, and I listened to Gov. Brown’s teleconference presented by ODVA Director Kelley Fitzpatrick.

The presentation was about the timeline for reopening Oregon. A few topics covered, opening America again guidelines. Framework Overview: Gating Criteria:3 components, symptoms, declining numbers, cases, declining numbers, hospital capacity, regular procedures, and adequate testing. Phased lifting of restrictions, 3 components, Phase 1, phase 2 and phase 3.

If anyone wants copies of the framework, several legionnaires were participating, including some department officers contact one of us with your email, and you will get a copy.

Stay safe.

Monday is Memorial Day, and the National Cemeteries are closed to the Boy Scouts and Volunteers placing the flags on our Veterans graves. Many of our Comrades, whether they are in the American Legion, MCL, VFW, etc. are choosing to highlight the rural cemeteries that so many of them each year go out and plant the flags in remembrance and respect for their sacrifice.

I was invited by the American Legion Department Commander Steve Adams to accompany him to the Harland Oregon Community Cemetery, which is not too far from the coast and way out in the boondocks. Steve introduced me to Chip Cooper, a Hospital Corpsman Vietnam era who takes care of the Cemetery.

The American Legion High School Awards and Support

For the past five years, starting in the 2014-15 school year, Medford American Legion Post 15 and White City American Legion Post 192 have been teaming and working together to provide support for the schools in the Rogue Valley. And they are conducting The American Legion High School Awards Program.

We initially started this program in 2008 at South Medford High School, where we introduced The American Legion High School Awards Program. Each year at the High School Graduation at participating High Schools, the two Legion Posts present the awards to a deserving student(s) as recommended by the School staff for their accomplishments and community service.

Logos Public Charter School has been continually active with our American Legion Posts since 2013. This year with no gatherings with over twenty-five people allowed, the faculty of Logos Public Charter School addressed new challenges to hold a graduation ceremony and recognize exceptional students.

The graduation will start by filming on Thursday, May 28, in the late afternoon recognizing five graduates at a time, and it will continue until the graduating class is filmed through Friday. We will be there to present and recognize the winners for this school year and present their American Legion Medallion and Folder. As the students and their parents do not know who will be receiving the award,
A Lesson in Freedom: Veterans Return Students’ Desks

A teacher imparted a lesson in the value of freedom by having veterans return her students’ desks.

BARBARA MIKKELSON
PUBLISHED 3 SEPTEMBER 2008

In September of 2005, on the first day of school, Martha Cothren, a History teacher at Robinson High School in Little Rock, did something not to be forgotten. On the first day of school, with the permission of the school superintendent, the principal, and the building supervisor, she removed all of the desks in her classroom. When the first-period kids entered the room, they discovered that there were no desks. ‘Ms. Cothren, where are our desks?’

She replied, ‘You can’t have a desk until you tell me how you earn the right to sit at a desk.’

They thought, ‘Well, maybe it’s our grades.’ ‘No,’ she said. ‘Maybe it’s our behavior.’ She told them, ‘No, it’s not even your behavior.’ And so, they came and went, the first period, second period, third period. Still no desks in the classroom. Kids called their parents to tell them what was happening and by early afternoon television news crews had started gathering at the school to report about this crazy teacher who had taken all the desks out of her room.

The final period of the day came, and as the puzzled students found seats on the floor of the desk-less classroom. Martha Cothren said, ‘Throughout the day no one has been able to tell me just what he or she has done to earn the right to sit at the desks that are ordinarily found in this classroom. Now I am going to tell you.’

At this point, Martha Cothren went over to the door of her classroom and opened it. Twenty-seven (27) U.S. Veterans, all in uniform, walked into that classroom, each one carrying a school desk. The Vets began placing the school desks in rows, and then they would walk over and stand alongside the wall. By the time the last soldier had set the final desk in place those kids had started to understand, perhaps for the first time in their lives, just how the right to sit at those desks had been earned.

Martha said, ‘You didn’t earn the right to sit at these desks. These heroes did it for you. They placed the desks here for you. They went halfway around the world, giving up their education and interrupting their careers and families so you could have the freedom you have. Now, it’s up to you to sit in them. It is your responsibility to learn, to be good students, to be good citizens. They paid the price so that you could have the freedom to get an education. Don’t ever forget it.’

By the way, this is a true story. And this teacher was awarded the Veterans of Foreign Wars Teacher of the Year for the State of Arkansas in 2006. She is the daughter of a WWII POW.

I am a 60-year-old U.S. Marine Corps Veteran honorably discharged in January 1983. During my time in the Marines, I was a CH-53 helicopter mechanic/crew chief and have always been proud of my service to our country. After my time in the Marines, I followed a career path in the Aerospace industry as an X-ray Inspector and have worked for a company in the Portland area in that field for many years.

Recently, on December 19, 2019, I lost my job, which was very unexpected, and just days before Christmas. This job loss hit me very hard, and I began having feelings of worry, anxiety, fear, and low self-esteem, which led to severe depression and my contemplation of life as my thoughts and emotions become overwhelming.

Because of the persistence and follow-up contacts made by a Milwaukie Police Department Veteran Resource Officer and Milwaukie American Legion Veteran Service Officers, I was guided to admitting myself into the V.A. Hospital on January 6.

As V.A. doctors worked to find the correct medicines that would help me control my emotions and thoughts, The Veteran Outreach Team remained in constant contact with me, either by phone or visits at the hospital. While in the hospital I learned that funds provided by the “Corporal Diffie Veterans Fund” were being approved to temporarily assist me with essential bills until I could receive Unemployment Benefits, be enrolled in veteran services with the V.A. or Clackamas County, and as I worked towards finding new employment to support myself again.

The Veteran Outreach Team was instrumental in helping me secure all the benefits I was qualified for through the V.A. and Clackamas County. Their assistance to ensure those benefits, along with the help received through the Corporal Diffie Veterans Fund for essential bills to avoid becoming homeless or hungry, gave me the needed support to recover from my situation. Because of their help and aid provided by the fund, I am now finally able to move forward, focused on new employment opportunities without worries of becoming homeless.

I will be forever grateful for the help the “Corporal Diffie Veterans Fund” provided me and the support I received through the Milwaukie Police Department and Milwaukie American Legion Veterans Outreach Team.

Thank You!!!

P.S. It just shows that it is not a one time visit or effort to help our brothers and sisters in need. Thanks to Brad, Jim Rolison, and Jerry Craig. It worked for him--godspeed. Jerry Craig and Jim Rolison did an outstanding job getting this Veteran to admit into the hospital, and Jim did a significant amount of follow up with the Veteran until they were able to get him back on his feet. Outstanding Job! Gentlemen.

FOR IMMEDIATE RELEASE

The American Legion to Washington:

‘Extend the National Guard!’

(INDIANAPOLIS—May 20, 2020) – The head of the nation’s largest veterans organization called on the White House to extend federal orders to thousands of members of the National Guard whose current deployment in coronavirus relief efforts falls one day short of the 90-day period required to obtain many benefits including home loans, education and retirement.

“Highly unfair and disturbing,” is how American Legion National Commander James W. “Bill” Oxford described the plan to award those deployed credit for 89 days of federal service. “I served many years in the North Carolina National Guard. I know the caliber of these outstanding men and women who leave their homes and literally risk their lives so communities across America can be safe during national emergencies,” Oxford said. “The coronavirus pandemic has been devastating for many people. We would be far worse off if we did not have the National Guard setting up field hospitals, cleaning nursing homes and delivering emergency supplies. An 89-day deployment strongly suggests a decision based on accounting rather than what’s needed to truly respond to this emergency. The American Legion is calling for the president to fix this.”

The American Legion, www.legion.org, is the nation’s largest veterans service organization and was founded in 1919 on the four pillars of a strong national defense, the care and wellbeing of U.S. military veterans, patriotic youth programs and Americanism.

The American Legion welcomes Trump tweet on National Guard extension

(INDIANAPOLIS—May 28, 2020) — The head of the nation’s largest veterans organization praised a tweet by President Trump today indicating that federal orders for members of the National Guard would be extended through the middle of August.

The tweet comes just eight days after The American Legion called for an extension, which would entitle certain National Guard members to additional home loan, education and retirement benefits since their federal orders would now exceed 90 days.

“We know that the coronavirus emergency will not suddenly end at 89 days,” American Legion National Commander James W. “Bill” Oxford said. “Yet thousands of outstanding men and women of the National Guard left their homes and risked their lives in response to this emergency. From cleaning nursing homes to delivering supplies, the National Guard has been a national treasure. The American Legion welcomes the president’s tweet indicating his plans to extend the Title 32 orders, which would enable these heroes to accumulate benefits that they have certainly earned.”

The president’s tweet stated “The men and women of the National Guard have been doing a great job fighting the Coronavirus. This week, I will extend their Title 32 orders through mid-August, so they can continue to help States succeed in their response and recovery efforts.”
